

News Item: Additional Transmission Capacity May be Available

Posted:* October 24, 2013

PGE is currently in commercial negotiations that may result in PGE owning additional transmission capacity on the California Oregon Intertie. If PGE procures this additional capacity, PGE intends to make it available through an open season process and will only accept requests for this capacity through that process. PGE will post additional information on this open season process, including instructions for participating in that process, on this OASIS site with sufficient advance notice to allow interested eligible customers to participate in that process.